Late Foreign Articles

LONDON, May 1.

Yesterday Lieutenant Duval, who was dispatched bp Lord Nelson over land to India with the news of his memorable victory, arrived express from Bombay and brought also advices from Constantinople. We understand that every thing is favourable in the East Indies, and, there is nothing new from Constantinople. He came from Hamburgh in the Busy sloop of war.

This day arrived the Mail from Hamburgh which became due last Sunday. The contents, however, have been in a great measure anticipated by the London Gazette of last night, capt. Ommanney, who accompanied lieut, Duval from Vienna, having brought dispatches to Ministers from Sir Morton Eden. The further accounts which general Kray gives of this important battle of the 5th inst. and the consequences which followed it, are most auspicious to the fate of Italy. It is impossible for any thing to be more complete than the victory of the Austrians. The French are not only driven into their fortresses, where it is a question whether they have magazines and stores, or can depend on the disposition of the natives to befriend them; but he is reduced to such a state of disorder and mutiny that the Gazette tells us the soldiery even plundered their own generals. In little more than a fortnight the army of Italy has been thus broken in pieces, and now Moreau is called upon to collect the fragments, and restore them to order and strength. His military talents are indisputable; but we suspect it will be beyond his skill to rally them, or to preserve his footing against the augmented force which the junction of the Russians, with the victorious Austrians, now embodied against him; if the two latter be not visited with the curse of jealousy—the bane of united armies of different countries, languages, and manners.

The French papers prepared us for the account of the capture of Schaffhausen, which the Gazette also announces. The campaign in this quarter will now be brought into the country of Switzerland, and every friend to the liberties of mankind must rejoice to think that brave and afflicted people have now a chance to regain their independence.

Admiralty office, April, 29, 1799.

Melampus, at Sea, April 19.

SIR,

I have the honour to inform you, that yesterday morning in lat. 50 23, long. 15 20, we chased a ship, which on our firing at her, hoisted French colours. The wind blowing exceedingly hard at N W. with a very heavy sea, she got before the wind when within half gun-shot of her, and setting all possible sail, obstinately persisted in attempting to escape; after carrying away our studden sail booms, we continued firing our chase guns, when she suddently gave a broad yaw to windward, instantly overset, and in the space of two minutes, she went down, and not an atom of the wreck could be seen. The greatest exertions and the utmost expedition was used in bringing the Melampus to the wind as near the spot as possible, with the view of saving these unfortunate people, but nothing remained on the surface.

I find by the information of the captain and officers of Le Papillon, which sailed from Nantes, about the same time with this ship, and who knew her both from appearance and the signals she made to us, that she was Le Nantois, of 14 twelve and six pounders, and 150 men; and I am very sorry to add, that from other circumstances there is no room for doubt, that the master and part of the crew of the Echo, of Pool, which she had taken, were amongst the suffers on this melancholy occasion.

I am, &c.

G. MOORE.

Adm. Kingsmill, Cork.

May 2.

Yesterday we stopped the press to announce that intelligence had been received at the admiralty of the Brest fleet having put to sea. The account comes from Lord Bridport and was brought to Plymouth by the Dolly cutter of 8 guns. His Lordship's dispatches state, that on Friday last it was discovered by his cruisers that the French fleet had come out of Brest harbour, and had steered to the southward. They had taken advantage of a leading east wind to come out and a thick fog prevented the English frigates appointed to watch their motions from ascertaining precisely their force, 25 or 26 ships were clearly numbered, but it were not certain whether more than 16 or 17 were ships of the line; 18 ships of the line had been observed in the outer road of Brest harbour several days before, but it was not possible to observe the exact number that put to sea. Lord Bridport also writes that, as the enemy had steered to the southward, he had dispatched a swift sailing vessel to apprize admiral earl St. Vincent of the fact; he had directed several frigates to pursue the course they had taken, appointing a rendezous to which they should repair, or to which they should send information, and he himself had set sail to the coast of Ireland. He was between ten and twelve hours after the French fleet, but equipped as he is with 16 ships of the line, five of which are three deckers, fully manned, and with a body of officers, such as the enemy cannot equal, it is to be hoped that he will intercept them before they can effect a landing on any part of Ireland, if that kingdom be the point of their destination.

Some suppose that they may be bound to Cadiz, to force out the Spanish fleet; or perhaps to make their threatned descent upon Portugal; or they may be destined to the Mediterranean. It is even supposed that their object may be to convoy a body of troops to a certain latitude, which are appointed to attempt the reduction of Brazils. But Ireland is most probably the object they have in view. At any rate we may trust that ministers have certain knowledge of their designs, and that they have taken measures to thwart their execution. It is not likely that the Republican government of France should be able to carry on its projects of ambition with more concealment than the ancient monarchy.

One thing is certain: ministry were so well informed of their intention to sail (indeed we announced the preparations of the enemy for this event some time ago) that provisional orders had been sent to the proper ports for the direction of our commanders, in case of such an event taking place. Our letters received this morning from Plymouth inform us that all is bustle on board the men of war in that harbor, and that every ship that could possibly put to sea would sail yesterday. Four ships of the line and three frigates were already unmoored.

When we stated the preparations of the French, we also mentioned the exertions making in the ports of Holland to second their views. This intelligence is fully confirmed by some Dutch gazettes which reached us yesterday evening. A decree has been passed in the first and second Chambers in consequence of a message from the Directory, that all merchant vessels shall be put in a state of requisition. An order which was issued in consequence of this decree, for making out lists to enable the Directory to ascertain what of these can be best spared from the commerce of the country, ought to be considered as intendent merely for a blind, for the purpose of impressing an idea that the period of the sailing of their fleet is yet at some distance. The decree, however, gives them the power to act when they will. [See our article of Hague. April 20.]

We know nothing so desirable as that the battle should be fought by sea, if we are again to fight for the possession of Ireland. The issue may be confidently trusted to the valour, skill and discipline of our tars; but it is not certain that Ireland is the point of attack.

The last letters received at Paris from the banks of the Rhine state, that the fortress of Ehrenbreitstein is completely furnished with provisions for a garrison of 4000 men for 18 months.

VERONA, April 6.

On the 4th inst. advice was received here, that the enemy, not yet disheartened by the unsuccessful attacks of the 26th and 30th of March, had collected his whole force between the Adige and the Tartaro, & was seven divisions strong. General Kray determined not to wait for his attack, but to be beforehand with the enemy. With this view he drew together the greater part of his army, in the night between the 4th and 5th, in the vicinity of Verona, and at the break of day marched against the enemy in three columns. He found him in an advantageous position between some marshy rich fields toward Rombo—in order to dislodge him from which, he made a feigned retreat about ten in the morning, which perfectly succeeded, the enemy eagerly pursuing. An obstinate and bloody action now ensued, which lasted till night, and ended in the entire defeat of the enemy, who lost 18 pieces of cannon, 11 standards, 30 ammunition waggons, and five thousand five hundred men made prisoners, among whom were 160 officers. They left above 4000 killed and wounded on the field of battle, and retreated in the night over the Minico behind Mantua. The loss of the Austrians is about 2000 killed and wounded. The light horse of Lewenohr behaved with extraordinary bravery; and the greatest emulation prevaled through the whole army. The inhabitants of the country distinguished themselves on this occasion by their patriotism, the nobility and citizens came with coaches and waggons, to bring the army wine, bread, and other provisions.

The greater part of the prisoners taken in the battle yesterday, are Cisalpines and Piedmontese.

We have a report here, though it is not yet confirmed, that early this morning a column of the Austrian army passed the Minico, and after a short resistance took 2000 French prisoners, among whom were 87 officers. The siege of Peschiera, in which there is a garrison of 5000 French, will now be immediately begun. The Austrians have already thrown a great many bombs and grenades into the town.

FROM LATE LONDON PAPERS.

An attempt of the Jews of Amsterdam to create a difference in the funds of that country, injurous to the state, has occasioned a threat of banishment in the event of repeating the offence.

The usurious, stock-jobbing manœuvres of the Jews at Stockholm, by which a difference was created between the bank money and the public effects, injurious to the state, has been prohibited under pain of banishment.

The late Sir Richard Hotham, who was originally a Hatter in the Strand, was enabled by the most creditable industry, and his India shipping, to expend £100,000 upon Hothampton, his seat near Bognor.

The Jewish process of divorce is short, and unattended with expense. Each party enter the Synagouge attended by two Priests; where, after stating the cause of difference, the woman is asked if she is willing to part with her husband, and on answering in the affirmative, he throws at her the bill of divorcement, each spitting in the other's face, and exclaiming "Curfed be they who shall wish to bring us together again."

April 7.

Yesterday Mr. William Penn undertook the performance of his wager entered into some time since, to walk two miles in a quarter of an hour. The Uxbridge road was the ground chosen, and the distance was finished by Mr. P. fifty-three seconds within the time allotted. This is in itself perhaps an instance of pedestrian exertion that has seldom been equalled; but the circumstances of the case render it peculiarly striking and place Mr. P. in a very spirited point of view. He had scarcely got over the first mile (which he performed in six minutes and an half) when he struck his foot so violent a blow against a sharp-pointed stone, that his great toe-nail was entirely torn off, and the flesh otherwise dreadfully lacerated; yet he nevertheless had the courage to proceed, in spite of the pain, which of course must have been excruciating. The very profuse hæmorrage that took place from the wound might have been attended with very unpleasing effects, had not a bottle of Styptic been very luckily procured from a house near the spot, and applied with success.

By this Day's Mail.

NEW-YORK, June 24.

LATEST FROM FRANCE.

☞ By the ship mentioned in the preceding column, we have received Paris papers to the 27th of April, from which, though the series is irregular, and interrupted by the absence of several intermediate numbers, we have translated for this day's New-York Gazette, several articles of interesting intelligence. We will endeavor to give the Treaty of Defensive Alliance between the Porte and Russia—Also, the act of reconciliation between the Porte and Passwan Oglou, to-morrow; with such other details as may seem worthy of public notice.

We find nothing respecting the situation of Affairs in Italy, and but few articles that reflect any light on the movements of the hostile armies generally. Indeed, from the gloomy aspect of the papers, we are induced to suspect that the political horison is considerably overcast; and that the journalists think, the less that is said of their affairs the better.

The day captain Kooter sailed, he was informed by the captain of an English schooner, that the Brest fleet was out, and that the English fleet was in close pursuit of them.

Paris, April 27.

A Post-master of Suabia has been accused of being the cause of the defeat of the Austrians in the Grison country, and the capture of Auffemburg—He had detained an estafette sent by that general requesting immediate succours. On investigating the reasons of this delay, the Post-master accused his clerk, and the clerk retorted it on the master. They were immediately tried, and both hung.

We are informed from Constantinople the 24th tentose, that on the 16th, a fleet of transports with 5000 men on board, under convoy of several Turkish and Russian ships of war, left that place, bound, it was said, not to Egypt, but towards the southern coast of Naples.

General Jourdan is named Inspector General of one of the armies—we believe it is that of Italy.

Hamburgh, April 12.

The reports of an invasion had lately been so repeated and credible, that our Senate becoming uneasy, applied to M. de Sclemburg at Berlin on the subject, who has officially replied in the name of the king of Prussia, that the city of Hamburgh was too important to the Germanic Body in general, and Prussia in particular, not to engage his majesty in the most unequivocal manner to declare, That he would sooner see the subversion and destruction of his own States, than the invasion of Hamburgh.

Ratisbone, April 15.

The Austrian Minister has declared in the Council of Princes at the Diet, that as the late events of the war, must have an influence on the present decisions relative to the march of the Russians, and the situation of affairs being changed, he proposed to the Deputies to request new instructions from their constituents—But the Diet has come to no resolution on the subject.

Stutgard, April 11.

We learn from Donaneschingen, that the Archduke Charles, on the first intelligence of the successes that attended the French arms, on the western frontier of Tyrol, detached from his army a body of 15,000 men to reinforce the army of gen. Bellegarde. But the danger which threatened this country having ceased by the retreat of gen. Lecourbe into the Grison Country, and an advantage being gained by Gen. Kray on the Adige, is destined to act against Switzerland, above the lake of Constance, while the Archduke himself will attack on the side of Shaffhausen—It is said that operations will commence on the 19th or 20th.

A letter from Lindau of the 17th says the attack had already commenced at Reineck, where the Austrians seem inclined to force a passage across the Rhine.—At Lindau a conflagration was seen beyond the lake in the direction of Reinick and St Gall.

Manheim, April 13.

The French are establishing a fortified camp between this city and Heidelbergh—Several battallions which repassed the Rhine at Manheim, have repaired to Mayence—General Chiron who commanded the 4 departments conquered on the Rhine has established his head quarters at Calogne.

Strasburgh, April 16.

On the 10th the Austrians advanced to Baden, two leagues distance from Rastadt—Their advanced posts are at Sinshien, on the causeway between Rastadt and Richel, and extend to Kuppenheim, a short league from Rastadt.

The troops of the 2d division of the army of the Danube, which had repassed the Rhine, and occupied old Brissack, are returned to the Left bank, and have broken down the bridge of communication between the two Brissacks. They have followed the main body of the 2d division, which is already arrived at Casle.

April 21.

We learned yesterday that the peasantry of Cappel, (formerly subject to the Bishop of Strasburgh) near Oberkirk, furnished a detachment of our troops, cantoned in their village, and put them to death.

LUCERNE, April 25.

Since Helvetia has been threatened with war, the Legislature has had several secret sittings, deliberating on the means of saving the country. It is said that mutual reproaches have been cast by the Executive and Legislative bodies, on account of the existing situation of affairs: The Directory has been blamed for not employing the power given it by the constitution and Laws, either for the protection of the frontiers, the maintainance of good order and peace within our own territories, or the completion of the levy of 100,000 men, and the chosen body of——(number erased)—It has in particular been reproached for confiding in the Minister of War, who was incapable of properly filling that port from a total want of abilities. On the contrary, the Directory has talked of a faction in the two councils, which ever opposed obstacles to the plans brought forward for the salvation of the country. It also criminates a number of the Members who were the occasion of rejecting the extraordinary Military Council which it had requested should be erected. To this event the internal disturbances are attributed.

The discipline of the French army has provisionally adopted to serve as a rule for the Military Councils.

The Directory has been invited to assemble 15000 men in addition to those already raised, in order to increase the garrison of Lucerne.

The Canton of Shaffhaux and Linth are declared in a state of siege. Tranquility is restored in the Canton of Sentis.

April 16

We suppose the mutineers would return to their duty and not expose themselves to the terrible lesson which has just been given them. But we learn that the Commune of Rufcoyl (three leagues from this) has been under arms some days, and that considerable numbers of the Rebels having joined, them, they are bold enough to menace this city. Our government has taken the most vigorous measures—A column of 1000 men, composed of 500 French, and the rest Lurichers, Carbineers and other Volunteers from Lucerne, set out on the night of the 14th.—Successive reinforcements coming in from every direction have given our troops an imposing attitude. The action being on the morning of the 15th, at a Village of Rysuell. A few volleys of langrage were sufficient to repulse the Rebels from this Village, and compel them to retire in a forest—They were pursued there, and the action re-commenced. The Rebels fought with courage. Their Chief a German Miller, was killed, and his horse taken. Several Rebels remained on the ground. On our part we had one Frenchman killed, and three wounded. The Insurgents were partly armed with clubs, pointed with iron, and called Morning Stars.

The National perfect Aran, has mached with three or four Companies to the Valley of Kulm, where he has disarmed the inhabitants, and taken the leaders of the Insurrection.

Noon. This moment 14 or 15 prisoners came in. They are almost all young men, remarkable for their stupidity and terrified looks.

A serious affair has occurred in the neighbourhood of Thonn. Between 2 and 300 insurgents have bit the dust.

Yesterday the Austrians attacked Schaffhausen—the French evacuated it, passed the Rhine, and burnt the bridge. A few shells fell in the city, as well as in Furthallin, situated on the left side—a few houses were destroyed.

Capt. Connell, of the Rein Deer, on Saturday, informs us, that the Governor of Surrinam has received orders from the Batavian Republic, to suffer no privateers, of any nation, to bring American prizes into that port; and in case any should be brought in, he is further ordered to deliver them to the proper owners, with costs.

Capt. C. states that the markets in Surrinam, is overstocked with produce, &c.

Three French privateers were lying in Surrinam, to sail in 3 days for Cayenne.

Mr. Tufts, lately appointed American Consel at Surrinam, could not be acknowledged by the Governor the reasons he gave for it, was, that he could not acknowledge a Consul from the French Republic.

Yesterday morning sailed for Halifax, his Britannic Majesty's Frigate Boston, Captain Douglas. Passengers, Mr. Hartshorne, and two daughters.

We are informed, that orders have been received by the officers engaged in the recruiting service to enlist none but native Americans.

Sunday arrived ship Marsillisberg, captain Kooter, in 51 days from Cherbourg, in France, consigned to Mr. Schewighauser, merchant, of this city.

The Marsillisberg sailed from Altona on the 6th of December, bound to New-York—and on the same day put into Cuxhaven: On the 9th March, sailed from Cuxhaven for New-York, but through distress of weather was obliged to put into Cherbourg on the 14th, from whence she sailed on the 2d May for her destined port.

The Marsillisberg was boarded the 2d day she left port by a British schooner, who informed captain Kooter that the English fleet had fallen in with the French fleet from Brest, and that a severe action had taken place, the particulars he could not inform.

On the 24th May, the Marsillisberg was boarded by the British frigate Aurora, from Teneriffee, on a cruise; but having nothing but ballast in was suffered to proceed.

The ship Amsterdam, from Amsterdam, bound to Baltimore; and the ship Ann and Sarah, from Baltimore to London, are taken and carried into Cherbourg, where it is probable they will be condemned.

On D[illegible] and one Swedish ship, under Prussian colours, were condemned in Cherbourg while the Marshallisberg lay there.

By the Marshallisberg, arrived yesterday from Cherbourg, in France, we have a confirmation of the Defeat of the French, by the Archduke Charles, with the loss of 10,000 men.

TRIBUTE OF APPLAUSE.

K. MORRISSON (late 2d mate of the ship Ontario, Capt. Wheaton, of this port, which was lost on her homeward bound passage from Canton) in behalf of that part of the crew who arrived at Newport R. I. take this public method of returning their sincere thanks to Capt. Wheaton, for his gentleman like behaviour to them during the voyage.

They further return their grateful thanks to Captain Smith of the ship Semiramis of New-Port, for his humane and generous conduct during their passage from the Cape of Good Hope to that port; and also to his officers and crew, for the very handsome sum of money they presented them with to bear their expences to their respective homes.

PROVIDENCE, June 19.

Saturday last arrived the ship Ann and Hope, capt. Benjamin Page, 126 days from Canton. He sailed in company with the British ship Intrepid of 64 guns, commodore Hargood; the Arrogant, of 74, captain Osman, and the La Virginie, of 40. Under this convoy were nine ships belonging to the British East India company, three country, and three American ships; the latter were, the Camilla, capt. Roberts, of New-York; the Jenny, capt. Brown, of Boston, and the Ann and Hope: commodore Hargood politely favoring them with his signals.

A few days previous to sailing, a Spanish squadron, consisting of one ship of 80 guns one of 74, and of 40, with two French frigates of 40, and a corvette of 16 guns, all from Manilla, came into the East passage, while the British squadron were watering near one of the Islands east of Macao. Their unexpected appearance obliged the British squadron to cut their cables, and put to sea. Night coming on, the hostile squadrons lost sight of each other, the French and Spanish hauling close to the wind. The British wore to leeward, and after clearing ship, returned to their former station. Intelligence having been sent to the British factory, some of the largest merchant ships cleared their gun decks, and proceeded to join the ships of war, expecting to meet the French and Spaniards in the Chinese sea, but were disappointed.

The fleet sailed from Macao the 8th of February and touched at Malacca the 22d; parted with the Camilla between the Paracels and the coast of Cochin China, she not being able to keep up with them. Captain Page left the British ships and the Jenny, captain Brown, at Pulo Rondo, the western entrance of the Malacca straights, captain Brown dangerously ill.

Left at Canton, the ship Thomas Russell, captain Magee, and at Macoa, the Alexander, captain Dodge, both of Boston.

On the 7th instant, at 3 in the morning, lat. 30, 42 N. long. 64, 30 W. capt. Page fell in with a British privateer of 14 guns, full of men. She hailed from Bermuda, and shewed English colors, but was supposed to be French. After following the ship upon her course 15 hours, she fired 3 shot, which number was well returned. the Ann and Hope mounting 12 nine pounders. Finding capt. Page prepared to give him a warm reception she hauled her wind and left him.

During her voyage, the Ann and Hope has not met with a ship which out-sailed her.

Captain Wheaton, who arrived here on Sunday last, informs, that he left at Guadaloupe 13 American captains and 50 seamen, in close confinement, upon an allowance of six ounces of putrid beef per day. Captain W. further informs, that the same day he left Guadaloupe (the 5th of May) Captain Fletcher, of the United States' frigate George Washington, sent in a cartel to Guadaloupe in order to take off whatever Americans might be there; but received answer from the government, that he did not know of any Americans being in the island, but that if any could be found, they were welcome to take their departure! What astonishing duplicity and villainy!!

NORFOLK, June 18.

Saturday arrived the brig Lorany, captain Smith, 14 days from St. Vincents. On the 13th inst. in lat. 34, long. 73, fell in with two ships boats, having on board the captain and crew of the British ship Empress of Russia, captain Williamson, from Jamaica, bound to this port. The Empress of Russia foundered on the 8th inst. in a heavy gale of wind, and the crew, 30 in number, had been 4 days in the boats.

Sunday arrived the sloop Mary Ann, capt. Croel, 21 days from Martinique. Informs that the schooner Choaro, capt. Carver, from Plymouth, and the schooner Betsey, capt. Pattreson, from Duxborough, had both arrived there.

Yesterday arrived in Hampton Roads, the brig Atalanta, capt. Tompkins, 47 days from Oporto. Capt. T. was taken on his outward passage from this port, by a French privateer ship of 24 guns, and 200 men, and afterwards retaken by the Mermaid English frigate, and carried into Oporto, which he left the second of May. The brig Brandywine Miller, King, bound to New-York, and the ship Pomona, Waters, for Alexandria, sailed the 29th April.

Capt. T. confirms the defeat of the French armies, but has brought no papers.

Spoke the 3d instand. the brig Fair American, Salisbury, from Cadiz, to Baltimore, out 58 days, in want of provisions.

Captain Tompkins saw the captain of the British Packet Chesterfield, that had been taken on her homeward passage (17 days out) by a French privateer, he was at Oporto going on to Lisbon.

Extract from the logbook of the sloop Two Friends, captain Bennett, from Norfolk to New-Providence.

Saturday 10th May, at 1 P. M. discovered a sail to windward; at 2 came up with and fired a shot at us, without any questions whatever, under American colours, on which we hoisted our own (American) in return, and hove-too immediately; he then fired another shot at us, and ordered the captain to get out boat and come on board with the papers, or else he would sink us:—the captain expostulated as much as possible, telling him the danger in getting on board in a small boat, the sea running high and the wind blowing a gale: he said he did not care a dam, &c. so fired a third shot at us, which had nearly done great damage, swearing and cursing at same time in a brutal manner, he would sink us.—We were obliged to comply [having no Guns] when the captain and two men went on board at a great risque in our own boat, she proved to be the brig Nancy, of New-York commanded by a captain Taylor, who on this occasion has proved himself a coward and poltroon: otherwise he would never have treated an American in such a villainous manner.

Fahrenheit's Thermometer was at 92, at 2 o'clock, P. M. yesterday, in the shade. After the slight sprinkling of rain, it fell two degrees in 10 minutes.

THE Aurora thinks it right, and to be desired, that the French should, by the means which they employ, or any means, extend their powers, recruit their finances, and subvert the independence of other nations. No doubt, after they have conquered all Europe, he hopes the United States will be able to stay their course; and to secure such hopes, he is now raising cock-necked troops; and thinks that if there will be more danger attending an actual contest, there will be also more honor. What excellent patriots are these jacobins, and what an irredeemable portion of gratitude, do we not owe them?

The Aurora (so precious is the Directorial character, in the eyes of the jacobins) has affected to consider, a work by Carnot, in answer to the report, by Bailleul, on the 18th Fructidor business, a fabrication; and hence, that all Carnot is made to say therein of the dear directors, is a calumny. It also insinuates, that he was suffered to escape through the kindness of the Directory.—The work in question carries with it such a strength of internal evidence, of its genuineness and authenticity, as must convince every unprejudiced reader; but were the prophets to descend from heaven, they could not, even now, convince a jacobin of the attrocious assassinations of Robespiere, or the crimes, perfidy, and depravity of the Directory.

Should the French conquer Germany, and England, all the rest of Europe, with Asia, and the East, must fall, an easy prey to her power and dominion; and yet this is what our exclusive patriots, or real republicans, are daily offering up their prayers, may be speedily accomplished. What then? There will then remain, the United States alone, to be conquered, to make France mistress of the world. Is it possible that there can be in the United States, one single human being (real republicans excepted) so foolish or infatuated, as to believe, France would suffer the United States to exist, an exception to her grandeur and universal dominion?

We learn from history, that the Roman General, Scipio, overcame Hannibal, the Carthaginian General, at Zama; and that not only the Carthaginians, but all other nations were conquered there also, inasmuch, as the destruction of Carthage, rendered easy to the Romans, the conquest of the world; and yet our real republicans echo, after the French, delenda est Carthago, England must be conquered; Germany must be conquered; Asia Egypt, and the East Indies must be conquered; Is it through moderation, that these Patriots hesitate, when they come to the United States?

The French Directory have declared themselves permanent during the war.

General Suwarow has issued a Manifesto, wherein he declares, that he means not to give and wishes not to receive quarter.

The Cisalpine Republic has revolted, as have also the whole of the Swiss Cantons.

The black flag was flying at Paris, a signal of bad news.

The above information is contained in Letters from Portugal, to the 10th May.

The various accounts which have been received of the restoration of the money captured in the ship Pigou, are totally false: the crew of that ship with the exception of the Surgeon and second Mate, are confined in goal, and treated with the utmost barbarity.

Extract from the Anti-Jacobin, or Weekly Examiner.

"It is some consolation to us to have to state not only from authority, but in verse, that our government has not been behindhand with that of France; but that aware of the wise and enterprising spirit of the enemy, and of the danger that might arise to our distant settlements from the export of learning and learned men being entirely in their hands, ministers have long ago determined on an expedition of a similar nature, and have actually embarked at Portsmouth, on board one of the East India Company's ships, taken up for that purpose (the ship Capricorn, Thomas Trueman, commander) several tons of savans, the growth of this country. The whole was conducted with the utmost secrecy and dispatch, and it was not till we were favored with the following copy of a letter (obligingly communicated to us by the Tunisian gentleman to whom it was addressed) that we had any suspicion of the extent and nature of the design, or indeed of any such design being in contemplation.

The several great names which are combined to render this expedition the most surprising and splendid ever undertaken, could not indeed have been spared from the countries to which they are an ornament, for any other purpose, than one the most obviously connected with the interests of society, and the most widely beneficial to mankind. The secrecy with which they have been withdrawn, without being so much as missed or enquired after, reflects the highest honor on the planners of the enterprize.

It now appears that there was in truth no light object in view, in sending abroad such a constellation of talents. They are destined, with the rest of the savans, on whom their native countries pride themselves (and long may they have reason to indulge the honest exultation!) to undertake a voyage of no less grandeur than peril; to counteract the designs of the Directory, and to frustrate or forestal the conquests of Buonaparte.

TRANSLATION OF A LETTER,

(In Oriental characters.)

From Bawba-dara-adul-phoola, Dragoman to the expedition, to Neek-awl-aretchid Kodex, Secretary to the Tunisian embassy.

Dear Neek-awl,

YOU'LL rejoice, that at length I am able
To date these few lines from the captain's own table.
Mr. Trueman himself, of his proper suggestion,
Has in favor of science decided the question;
So we walk the main deck, and are mess'd with the captain:
I leave you to judge of the joy we are rapt in.

At Spithead they embark'd us; how precious a cargo!
And we sail'd before day to escape the embargo.
There was Sh—b—h, the wonderful mathematician;
And D—rw—n, the poet, the sage and physician;
There was B--dd--s; and Bru--n; and G- dw--n whose trust is
He may part with his work on political justice,
To some Iman or Bonze, or Judaical Rabbin,
So with hugh quarto volumes he piles up the cabbin.
There was great Dr. P—r, whom we stile Bellendenus;
The doctor and I have a hammock between us.
'Tis a little unpleasant thus crowding together,
On account of the motion, and heat of the weather;
Two souls in one birth they oblige us to cram,
And Sir John will insist on a place for his ram.
Tho' the doctor, I find, is determined to think
'Tis the animal's hide that occasions the stink;
In spite of th' experienc'd opinion of Truman
Who contends that the scent is exclusively human.
But B- dd--s and D--rw--n engage to repair
This slight inconvenience with oxygene air.
To be join'd on the passage by the wise doctor R—h,
The same who all fevers, black or yellow can crush.
This exotic savant, with his lancet and sampson,
Can help to in-grave fell Corsica's d- d son;
The Virginia Soph, with his huge monster Mamouth,
If in a ship to be found they are able to cram both;
And Pr--y the sage, with his gaz sharbonic
Destructive as air from the regions of Old Nick,
With a cargo of science, so dreadful and splendid,
The contest, I ween, very soon will be ended.

Whither bound? (you will ask)—'tis a question, my friend,
On which Hong doubted; my doubt's at an end.
To ARABIA the stony, SABOEA, the gummy.
To the land where each man that you meet is a mummy:
To the mouths of the Nile, to the banks of Araxes,
To the red, and the yellow, the white and the black seas;
With telescopes, globes and a quadrant and sextant,
And the works of all authors whose writings are extant;
With surveys and plans, topographical maps,
Phials, crucibles, air-pumps, electric machinery,
And pencils for painting the natives and scenery.
In short, we are sent to oppose all we know,
To the knowledge and mischievous arts of the foe,
Who, though placing in arms a well-grounded reliance,
Go to war with a flying artill'ry of science.

The French Savans, it seems, recommended this measure
With a view to replenish the national treasure.
First, the true Rights of man they will preach in all places,
But chief (when tis found) in th' Egyptian Oasis:
And this doctrine, 'tis hop'd, in a very few weeks
Will persuade the wild Arabs to murder their Skeiks,
And, to aid the Great Nation's beneficent plans
Plunder pyramids, catacombs; towns, caravans,
Then enlist under Arcole's gallant commander,
Who will conquer the world, like his model Iskander.
His army each day growing bolder and finer,
With the Turcoman tribes he subdues Asia minor,
Beats PAUL and his Scythians, his journey pursues
Cross the Indus, with tribes of Armenians, and Jews,
And Bucharians, and Affgans, and Persians and Tartars,
Choaks the wretched Mogul in his grandmother's garters,
And will hang him to dry in the Luxembourg Hall,
'Midst the plunder of Carthage, and spoils of Bengal.

Such we hear was the plan: but I trust if we meet 'em,
That, Savan to Savan, our cargo will beat 'em.
Our plan of proceeding, I'll presently tell:—
But soft—I am call'd—I must bid you farewell,
To attend to our Savans my pen I resign—
For, it seems that they duck them on crossing the line.

We deeply regret this interruption of our Oriental poet, and the more so, as the prose which we have received from a less learned correspondent, does not enable us to explain the tactics of our belligerent philosophers, so distinctly as we could have wished. It appears in general, that the learned doctor who has the honor of sharing the hammock of the amiable Oriental, trusted principally to his superior knowledge in the Greek language, by means of which he hoped to entangle his antagonists in inextricable confusion. Dr. D—n proposed (as might be expected) his celebrated experiment of the Ice-Island, which, being towed on the coast of Africa, could not fail of spoiling the climate, and immediately terrifying and embarrassing the sailors of Buonaparte's fleet, accustomed to the mild, temperate gales of the mediterranean, and therefore ill qualified to struggle with this new importation of tempests. Dr. B—s was satisfied with the project of communicating to Buonaparte a consumption, of the same nature with that which he formerly tried on himself, but superior in virulence, and therefore calculated to make the most rapid and fatal ravages in the hectic constitution of the Gallic hero. It would be presumptuous to say, certainly, what will be the employment of the American Savans; but if we may be allowed to offer a conjecture, we suppose the mellifluous R—h will strive to insinuate himself into the acquaintance of the French generals and philosophers; and, if they should chance to be proof against his lancet and Sampson, which is not very likely, make a direct attack on their "gall bladders." Dr. Pr--l--y and the Virginia Soph, it is probable, will by means of an enormous balloon, raise the monster Mamouth in the air, and let him fall souse into the middle of the French army, when in the heat of battle, which cannot fail to produce the most decisive effects. The rest of the plan we can say nothing about, excepting a hint about Sir J—s intention of proceeding with his rain to the celebrated Oasis, and of bringing away, for the convenience of the bank, the treasures contained in the temple of Jupiter Ammon.

NATIONAL DEFENCE.

IT is a subject of peculiar gratification to every man, who is a friend to his country, who desires to see her repel the fraternal embrace of the disturbers of this world, to view the rapidity with which the standards of national defence are joined. I have lately beheld with the most cordial satisfaction, the tribute of applause paid to several of the officers in different parts of the United Stats for the activity they have evinced in the recruiting service; but to none is praise more eminently due than to captain S. White and his officers of the 11th Regiment, rendezvousing at this place. Between the 9th May (the time of commencing the recruiting service) and the 16th of this instant, captain White and the officers under his command have enlisted sixty able-bodied, handsome, young men—all native Americans and between the ages of 18 and 30 years, of good moral characters, reputable parentage and well attached to the interests and defence of their country. Perhaps the army will not receive a company equal to this, from any part of the Union.

Dover, June 19. 1799.

Died, yesterday of a bilious fever, after an illness of only five days, Mr. JOSEPH ASHMEAD, son of Capt. John Ashmead, of this city, aged 26 years.

DIED last evening Mr. Roger Flahavan, of this city.

London, April 16.

On the 13th inst. the Imperialists attacked the French, who were entrenched in the abbey of Petershausen, and drove them across the Rhine, whereby some hundreds who could not pass the river quick enough were taken prisoners. General Piatchack then upon summoned the garrison of Constance, which consists of Swiss and French troops, to surrender. This being refused, the Imperialists began to open their batteries upon the city whereby the Cathedral suffered considerably. On the 14th the garrison was summoned the second time, the commander demanded six hours for consideration—therefore Constance was bombarded anew yesterday or has surrendered. On the 10th the Imperialists destroyed about sixty Swiss vessels which lay at Constance, by their shot. Colonel Williams lay with his flotilla at Stands, between Morsbury and Constance. General Hotz was yesterday yet in his former position between Feldkirk and Bhineck. On the 5th inst. the Helvetic Directory demanded anew from the Legislative Body a declaration of war against Austria, but this proposal has been repeatedly rejected by the Grand Council; they answered that no means ought to be omitted to defend themselves against the attacks of an enemy, but the Helvetian people would declare war against nobody.

TERMS
Of Richard Folwell, in Philadelphia,
FOR SUBSCRIBING TO THE
JOURNALS OF CONGRESS,
FROM THE COMMENCEMENT
Of the American War, in 1774, to the preſent time,
INCLUDING
The Reports of Heads of Departments, o Committees, and other Official and Private Papers of that Body, now firſt permitted to be made public.

TERMS.

THE work will be printed on a fine paper, and a new neat tipe, in large octavo.

Each volume will contain above 500 pages, neatly bound and lettered.

Uniformity in ſize, paper, and binding, will be obſerved throughout the work; ſo that, while the ſubſcribers become poſſeſſed of a valuable record, an ornament may be added to their libraries.

The price to ſubſcribers will be 2 dolls. 75 cts. per volume, in boards, and 3 dolls. whole bound, but, as the publiſher does not intend to print manmore than the number ſubſcribed for, a conſiderable riſe on the price may be expected to non-ſubſcribers.

Each volume will contain about one third leſs of letter-preſs than the original edition; but, as the publiſher is not yet enabled to determine the extent of the Private Journals, which he may be allowed to make public, he cannot aſcertain the number of volumes which will compriſe the work.

☞ Payments to be made on delivery of each volume.

Subſcribers will have it at their option, either to ſubſcribe for the whole of the Journals, up to the preſent time, or to thoſe only of the Old Congreſs prior to the organization of the Federal Government.

IN all countries, the proceedings in the commencement of their governments, are loſt in darkneſs and obſcurity, owing to a careleſsneſs, in the ſucceeding generation, to preſerve the public records, and the attention of the nation, in theſe rude ages, being called off from their domeſtic concerns, to engage in wars and conqueſt. Of what inſtitute value would the laws of Alfred be, had they been tranſmitted to our days? Time, that deſtroys every thing, enhances the value of well authenticated public records, and renders them almoſt inestimable. It is hoped, that Americans will, therefore, chearfully contribute their aſſiſtance in tranſmitting to poſterity the labours of their anceſtors—founders of the Columbian nation.

 The work will certainly be advanced with expedition and promptitude. The following will ſhow the ſuppart it has already acquited:

"That having, in our reſpective avocations, frequent occaſions to recur to the Journals of Congreſs, we experience inconvenience by the ſcarcity of them: That we underſtand that Richard Folwell, printer, of Philadelphia, has had it in contemplation to print that public record; and that he hath obtained partial countenance from many individuals; but that he has delayed proſecuting the work, in expectation of encouragement from government, that may adequately indemnify him. We, therefore, reſpectfully ſolicit, as the publication is neceſſary to be diſſeminated among public bodies, that Congreſs will, in their wiſdom, render him ſuch additional encouragement, to that which he has obtained from private individuals, as to enable him to proceed with the work, ſo that your Memorialiſts may be enabled to purchaſe copies of that record for themſelves
